About the Area

The town is situated in French Catalonia and both French and Catalan are spoken.

There is a Chaîne de Soleil spa in the old Roman baths as well as a cinema, casino and numerous restaurants and bars. There are three supermarkets. There is a communal pool, pony trekking, organised walks, cultural events and an annual music festival which attracts visitors and participants from all over the world. The mountains offer beautiful walks with magnificent views of Mount Canigou, the sacred mountain of the Catalans.

The nearest city is Perpignan which is about 50 minutes away by car. There is great shopping there, a railway station and airport as well as the usual facilities such as theatres and hospitals. Amélie offers fresh air, thermal water spa and a wealth of events and entertainments during the curiste/tourist season which lasts from February to December. In short, this beautifully presented and furnished apartment offers prospective purchasers the chance to buy a lovely home in a mild climate with stunning scenery and an authentic culture.

Amélie-les-Bains-Palalda is a commune in the Pyrénées-Orientales department in southern France. Prior to 1942, it was known as Amélie-les-Bains. It is situated in the Tech valley, and combines the old and the new with a mix of narrow cobbled streets and modern accommodation

Pyrénées-Orientales is a department on France's Mediterranean coast, along the Spanish border. The main city, Perpignan, is known for its Catalan culture and 13th-century Palace of the Kings of Majorca. South is the fishing town of Collioure, with its medieval Royal Castle, and the long beach at Argelès-sur-Mer. Inland, in Catalan Pyrenees Regional Park, is Canigou peak and the hilltop Abbey of St. Martin of Canigou
