Leírás:

This is a great little house on a friendly street with parking outside, close to the flat part of town. The house does need some work, but with a good basis to start.

Could be an amazing little bolthole with some imagination and investment.

From the street you enter into a small San Juan, leading into a small reception room with staircase. this leads to two inter-connecting bedrooms on the first floor with sloped beamed ceilings.

Downstairs you have a further internal sitting room, opening into the large basic kitchen at the back, this could be opened up a little to allow more light into the sitting room.

Outside , there is the original bathroom, this could be made internal by removing the back door a few meters back.

Stairs lead up to the mid terrace, with two outbuildings, these could renovated into having a higher terrace, to the back, and rooms underneath.
