Portimão is one of the most popular holiday destinations in the Algarve, southern Portugal. Here is a comprehensive overview of Portimão, covering various aspects: Portimão is located in the Algarve region, on the south coast of Portugal. It is the second largest municipality in the Algarve in terms of area and population.

It borders the municipality of Monchique to the north, Silves to the east and Lagos to the west. The geography is marked by golden sandy beaches, rugged cliffs and an inland landscape characterised by hills and valleys.

Portimão has some of the most stunning beaches in the Algarve, including the famous Praia da Rocha, known for its long stretch of sand and impressive rock formations. In addition to Praia da Rocha, there are other popular beaches such as Praia do Vau, Praia dos Três Irmãos and Praia do Alvor.

The cliffs and rock formations along the coast offer hiking opportunities and stunning panoramic views of the Atlantic Ocean. Tourism is an essential part of Portimão's economy, attracting visitors from all over the world all year round.

The main attractions include the Santa Catarina Fortress, offering panoramic views of the coast and the River Arade, and the Portimão Museum, which presents the history of the region's canning industry. Portimão Marina is another important attraction, offering facilities for yachtsmen and a variety of shops, restaurants and bars on the waterfront.
